OWING to the absence from Tokyo of Mr. Mutsu. Japonese Foreign Minister, the negotiations for re Portuguese consular rights in the Land of the Rising Sun are at a standstill. It is said that Portugal is receiving the moral support of France and Ruesia, but public opinion in Japan is so strong against any concessions being made to foreigners that the Government is scarcely likely to reconsider its adverse decision to Portugal's demande. Meanwhile, Governor da Borja has left Tokyo for a short sojourn at Miyanoshita.

PROFESSOR SERS, whose arrival from Australia friends and Press representatives in his rooms at the Hongkong Hotel, last night, and gave a very interesting and entertaining exhibition of the wonders of the phonograph. This marvellous instrument, perhaps the most ingenious invention ever conceived by man, is a most beautiful piece of mechanism, apart altogether from the possession of qualities that have given it such a high commercial value. The instrument shewn by the Professor is more than "up to date" having many improvements for which patents are now being applied for. The ordinary exhibited phonograph invariably possesses but a limited reperteirs of either speeches or musical compositions, but Professor Sers adds to his in the course of his travels; his most recent acquisition being the song of "The Tempest" as sung by a really high class tenor in Manila. Mr. Sers, who has the art of the showman's business at his finger ands, entertained his guests to a genuine variety show, including solos by well-known American artistes, band selections and even sand jigs, the accompaniments to which were as distinctly heard as if the original musical instruments were in the room. It is Professor Sers' intention to give an entertainment here, probably to-morrow night, at the City Hall, before procoeding to Japan, where he anticipates a profitable field lies before him.

THE Italian man-of-war Curtaione, Commander A. Ollvari, arrived here yesterday from Shanghal.

WHILE some men were working 'aloft on board the ship Habitant this morning, a spar fell to the deck, knocking a man down and seriously inforcing him. He was at once taken ashore to the hospital.

THE following literary and sporting curlosity appears in our Shanghal morning contemporary of August ard:-" Ten tandems turned out at the meet on the Race-course yesterday, led by Mr. Daniel, with a horn. Most of the drivers had ladies with them, and they drove to Unkaza where they were hospitably entertained, as ever, and returned to the Country Club, where they broke off, after a drive that was warmly enjoyed."

THE Progres de Saigon of July 28th says :-"Two Siameso spice, one of whom is said to be an officer of Chulalonghern's army, were captured a few days ago near Huc. They were sent to Touron, put on board the mail-boat Saigon, and brought here. One was in irons." What on earth would spies be doing at Hue? Trying to find traces of the "benefits" which French protection has brought to Aonam and wants to bring to Siam? But Frenchmen always are mad on the spy business.

A TIENTEIN correspondent informs us (says the Shanghai Mercury of the 1st inst.) that the new German Syndicate in that place has been disappointed in the matter of purchasing the property there of the old French Syndicate, ostensibly for Chang Yen-mao, the Director o' the C. E. and M. Co. The French were naturally disinclined to see their Teutonic rivals housed n the old home of great Gallic hopes -and disappointments too-and efforts are now being made to retain the property for the French. The Germans seem, however, to be very determined to obtain a strong facting on the French Concession, and a new "Astor House," close to the Union Club, on the French side, is said to be in contemplation.

AT the Magistracy to-day, before Capt. Hastings, ACCORDING to Japanese papers, Count Ito, Minister President, is reported to have intle ated that with regard to the disposal of the surplus revenue now in hand, and that which may account in succeeding years, the Mikado's Government will not propose any scheme themselves but intend to leave the matter to the d-cisios of the people. The Government is prepared to employ the fund for the reduction of the land tax, the abolition of export dutier, or the transfer of prison expenses from the local to the central Government, as may be decided. It will be observed that, unlike the immaculate and rersonslly patriotic Government of Hongkong, the Japanese Ministry does not claim or suggest that the surplus revenue should be set aside for increased salaries to grossly overpaid and notoriously incompetent officials.

> A GLOVE fight for the feather-weight championship of America took place at the Columbian Athletic Club, Roby, (Ind ) on July 10th between Johnnie Griffin of Braintree, Mass., and Solly Smith of Los Angeles, Cal., the stake at itsue being a purse of $6.000. Both men weighed In at 122lb., and Griffin was made a strong favourite, although his opponent bad also numerous supporters. Griffin, who played a writing game, had much the best of the fight until the middle of the fourth round, at which stage of the proceedings, Smith was decidedly groggy and looked all over a beaten man. Pulling bimself together, bowever, he rushed fiercely at Griffin and swinging his right on the Braintree puglist's jaw, caught him fairly on the point of that sensitive member and knocked bim clean out. It was a chance blow, very similar to that with which Fitzsimmons put Hall temporarily dead to the world in their great contest at New Orleans, and Griffin's backers, who thought their champion had victory in his grasp, are so dissatisfied with the result that they have offered to bet $10,000 to $5,000 for another fight, which offer will probably be accepted.

THE Shenpao says:- Four years ago Changyao, Governor of Shantung, instructed Sheng, Taotal of Chefoo, to enter into a contract with a foreign firm for two dredgers for the Yellow River. The contract was concluded with the French Syndicate at Tientsin, the price being Tis. 150,000. When the dredgers arrived at Tientsin Li Hung-chang refused to take them over because the hulls were not strong enough for the powerful machinery they carried. The Syndicate accordingly had to take them back again and make various alterations, which were carried out in the Taku dock; after which the Syndicate begged Li, as a great favour, to accept the dredgers. The Viceroy replied that he would make a trial of them and they were accordingly sent to the Yellow River, but could no further than the entrance to the Lee Tein River, and so were obliged to go back to Ti:ntain, where they have remained until the present time. The next step in connection with the unlucky dredgers was that the French Minister petitioned the Minister for Foreign Affairs in Paris on behalf of the Syndicare, requesting the Minister to ask Li Hung-chang to take the dredgers, and out or pure friendship the Foreign Minister did what he was asked. In the end THE following is Messrs. Wheelock & Co.'s Li Hang-chang ordered Shang Taotal, Chief freight market report, issued at Shanghai on the Director of the China Merchants S. N. Co., to take out the dredging machines and see if the China Merchants' fleet. This has been done over and survey them.

IN THE CHAMBER. (AT THE LAST MEETING).

The day is warm, the tuneful burs of files Is heard as each commercial member tries To gain a seat of envied prominence In order that his cultured eloquence May well be heard by all.

Grave Bellyjoss, the dewy beads of sweat Mops from his brow and proudly takes a seat ; Whilst near him Soapy Jim, all limp and damp, Talks on until his friends, half-mad with cramp, Are moved with one desire.

That great desire, that oft-repeated prayer-"O Lord, let me upon my back now bear The fullest penalty of all my sins, And stagger 'neath the weight of Mexikins-O load me up, I pray i"

Sir William now, with affable despair, Resigns himself and takes the high-backed chair, As Bellyjoss, with pompous grace, begins To ring the change on complimentary things-To please the good old man,

"Your Extency, I now most humbly pray," Says Belly joss in his respectful way, "That my most worthy colleagues will display The rightful interest that should bestir-With your permission I'll continue, Sir-The honest zeal of all.

"The first consideration that should move Our fervent energies' and gracefly prove The just devotion and integrity Of all the members and community-Should be our Gov'nor's health.

"To build a house upon the highest peak In order, Sir, that you may fully keep Your precious health and reap the benefits-Unknown in these unsanit'ry districts-Is what I now propose,

" Instead of always having to pay rent, Some sixty thousand dollars could be spent On this much needed mansion on the site Of Mountain Lodge, upon a breezy height "-"Where pass the clouds " speered Tom

The Clan O'Brien, with weird heart-rending grins, And meaning nods to Bellyj ss, begins :-My worthy friend has asked me to support His motion which seems tempered with fore-

And true solicitude." Much more he said of equal interest But of more note the gravitude express'd And satisfaction, in the upturned face-Filled in with modest smiles each wrinkled

A slience now upon the Chamber fell. And in the midst of this oppressive spell. Inflater's form rose up-two members cheered, And then with one stern cough he proudly sneered

At anxious Bellyious. "I think," he said, "a few well-weighed comments. Will not be out of place ; and no offence Is meant to my colleague when I affirm Than in a cloud-capped lodge,

"Where typhoons blow, where paths are rough And legious of white ants infest the peak, Where friends would be blown down and bashed

Where cataracts of rain and torrents flow "__ All bally rot I " yelled " Joss." "Quite so-I see it all " said Tommy White Regarding "Joss" who blindly groped for light,

Our friend has property near Mountain Lodge He wants the value raised !" "Oh h-1 |" grouned Bellyjoss. The Cov'nor now, with martial wave of hand Says " Gentlemen I beg you understand

I am impartial and this grave discourse This puts the kychosh on .-(Our Office Goat then cleared.)

LONDON, July 6th. The Commons was crowded to-night with persons eager to see clause five of the home rule bill forced through the committee. Balfour, the leader of the Unionists, was in the middle of a part in the case was one of the se happy memosentence when the clock struck to. He did not wait to finish it, but resumed his seat amid desfening cheers from the Opposition and cries of "Shame" and "Gagged." The Unionist amendment was lost and clause five, which provided for Irish executive authority, was then passed by a vote of 324 to 280.

Clause 6, which provides for an Irish Parliament with a legislative council of forty-eight a limited number of rounds." members, was passed without debate. The smallness of the majority and the preparations of the Government to proceed caused intense excitement. howled back, while the Liberals cheered with might and main. Eventually the exhaustion of the Unionists gave the chairman an opportunity to put the question on clause 7, which provides for a constitution for the Irish Legislative Assembly, and it was carried.

Clause 8, which contemplates cases of disagreement between the two houses of the Irish Legislature, was next carried.

A page and a half of the bill was rushed through escaped. the committee this evening, almost as much as was disposed of in all the previous slitings.

PARIS, July 7th Some excitement was caused here to-day by the report that a young Polish lady residing in Brussels had committed suicide and had been buried secretly after an unfortunate love affair with an exiled French plince. The facts of the case are as follow: Wanda de Kassye, 27 years of age, belonging to a noble Polish family resided with her relatives, M. and Mile. Metch-Lousky; the former ex-chanceller to Czar Alexacder III, who occupied the ground floor apartments at 345 Avenue Louise. Prince Victor Napoleon, who lives close by, frequently passed the house, and Mile. Wanda fell deeply in love with him and wrote him several letters. As the Prince did not answer her, Mlle. Kaszye, on Wednesday, stole a revolver from M. Metchkousky and shot herself through the heart. According to one version the deceased left some letters of a very e mpromising nature for the Prince, but M. Metchkousky and the Prince both deny this Indignantly. Inquiry has been instituted by the

All the persons drowned were railway builders, who, with thousands of other excursionists, had gone to the little watering place for a day's scort. The wacht Stannon took cut a party of thirty. When well out the yacht was overwhelmed by a thunder-storm. After the air had cleared the wacht was seen bottom upwards, with three men clinging to her. The others had been drowned. A boat was launched and the three survivois were brought ashore. Twelve bodies were recovered. The three survivors agree that nobody was to blame for the accident, as the suddenness of the squall could not have been anticipated.

ROME, July 8th. The final debate on the bank bill in the Deputies to-day was tomultuous, Signor Bovio, who has been energetic in the investigation of frauds, made the principal speech. The time had come, he said, for all implicated in bank bribery to explain their actions. "If the Senate will appoint a new committee of inquiry," continued Boylo, "I will refrain from naming the guilty men. I demand, however, that the guilty Robert West, who distinctly saved the life of men abstain from voting on the measure now before the House. If they do not, I will name them."

A riot broke loose in the Chamber as the threat was made. Jusuits were exchanged on every side, and a dozen or more fights were barely prevented. After endeavouring in valu to restore order, the president suspended the sitting. When proceedings were resumed Bovio yielded to the importunities of his friends and declined to continue his speech. The bank bill was then passed by a vote of 222 to 135, and the Chamber adjourned for the summer holidays. PARIS, July 8th.

Mr. E. J. Phelps, counsel for the United States, finished his closing address before the Behring sea tribunal of artitration to-day. He opposed the British proposal to establish twenty-mile zone within which sealing should be prohibited, busing his objection on the inefficlency of the proposal and upon the impossibilityof setting the limits of the zone effectually.

Proceeding to compare the present British proposals with those made by Lord Sallabury, counsel for Great Britain, who said that Lord Salisbury denied having made the proposal referred to, Phelps replied by reading Lord Salisbury's dispatches. He showed that Lord Salisbury only receded after Canada had interposed. Phelps then resumed his argument in support of American prohibition of pelagic sealing over the entire routs followed by the seals in their migrations, which route extended as far as San Francisco. If the arbitrators, he said, did not recognize that the United States had property rights in the herd, concurrent regulations would consequently be necessary.

At this point a long discussion took place about dealing with vessels seized and whether they empire as it is, and the present number of should be taken to the nearest American port or Federal Governments which form the Federal to a British port. When the discussion was finished Phelps proceeded. He charged that the | the side of the Reichstrg as the legislative British desired the tribunal to protect pelagic hunters and did not aim to secure the preservation of the seal herd.

Phelps closed his plea elequently, Every word was listened to with the closest attention by the large sudience. America, he said, stood on the justice of her case. He dwelt at some length upon the moral importance of the tribunal's decision. From this decision, he said. the only appeal was to the judgment of civilizajion and history.

MALTA, July oth. The widely published story of a touching and heroic scene on the bridge of the ill-fated Victoria during the minutes before her capsising. when Vice-Admiral Tryon is reported as having said to Midshipman Lanyon: "Jump and save yourself," to which Lanyon replied: .. " I would rather stay with you, sir," is, I believe, wholly apocryphal. Every drowned midshipmen doubtless died bravely and as a man should die without cry or entreaty, but the cold facts do not warrant any confidence in the Lunyon incident.

When Dr. Ellis, after having been sucked for down by the sinking Victoria rose to the surface greatly exhausted, he saw the Admiral's coxswain safely occupying the center of a large lifebuoy Dr. Ellis laid his hand on the buoy for a moment's rest, when the coxswain told him to go sway This is the sole blot on the otherwise splendid behavior of everybody. The tension of the survivors' nerves was curiously filustrated last night, when a midshipman and marine jumped overboard from the Orion while under the influence of nightmares. Both men dreamed that they were again about to sink with the Victoria.

Both men were saved. A conspicuously gallant and unselfish act was performed by Lieutenant Farquharron of the Royal Marines, who coming upon Vice-Admiral Tryon's secretary, Mr. Pawsey, while the latter, bruised and exhausted, was about to sink, supported him with difficulty but successfully until both were picked up by the rescuing boats. Another hero'c action was that of Naval Cadet Commander Jellico, who was ill with fever and powerless to help himself. Commander Jellico had been brought up from the sick bay by Dr. Ellis, but they became separated after the Victoria capsized. Both Farquharson and West the latter a mere boy, are the two heroes of the Prince Bismarck made a notable speech concerning the relations of the smaller Federal States to the empire and concluded with these remarkable words!

"There are seventeen Federal States baving only a single vote each in the Federal council. The council may be divided in three categories -small states with a vote each, Prussla with elghteen votes and the middle states with twenty-four votes. Thus you see what weight the small states have. All I am saying to you he was interrupted by Sir Charles Russell, is germain to the fact that the national idea has not caught fire to the parliaments and governments of the federa'ed states, as twenty or twenty-five years ago I hoped it would. "My fear and anxiety for the future is that the national idea may be stifled in the coils of the bos-constrictor of bureaucracy, which has grown rapidly in the last few years. Only the Federal Council and the Reichstag can help here, and the former has the right to assert itself. It would not be possible then for the governments of the smaller States to express opinions to which no official attention is paid. I sum up

It was in a gambling house in Montana. The above Ports on FRIDAY, the 11th instant, at gambler who uttered these words throw down his Noon. cards, rose from the table, and left the place. At early dawn the next morning the police found his body in some shrubbery about a mile distant. His own pistol was full of cartridges; it had not been used, yet there was a bullet hole in his left breast. Was there any mysterious prophecy in the cards, or was the gambler's fear the outgrowth of superstition, and his death a coincidence? Everyone must decide for himself.

But people are often considered as good as dead for a much more intelligible reason. Mr. William Goble, of 104, Albion Street, Southwick, near Brighton, was recently placed on that list by his friends. In his case the danger was not from powder or sharp steel, but from something that hurries more folks out of the world than they do. His story is this: Looking at his tongue, one day in the spring of 1887, he found it coated like a piece of brown leather. Of itself this might not have worried him, but other signs and portents went with it. His appetite failed, and what little he did eat seemed to cause great pain in his chest and sides. Now, good food never acts that way when a man is in proper condition. Quite the contrary. What was the matter?

Writing about it under date of Nov. 28th, 1891, Mr. Goble said : "I couldn't imagine what had come over me. Nothing like it had ever happened to me before. I had always been strong and healthy. But now I had a foul taste in the mouth, and wind appeared to roll all over inside my body. I had a choking sensation in my throat, and sometimes my heart would best so fast and so hard that it frightened me. After a while I got so weak I had to give up my work. I was almost too weak to walk, and when out walking I would get short of breath. Gradually I became weaker and weaker, and lost all my flesh. I could just crawl about, and that was all. My checks were sunken, and I had such a pale, ghestly look that my friends said I was in a decline and would never be better.

A doctor in Bouthwick said I was suffering from dyspensis, but after he had treated me for nine months I was worse than ever. At this time, our clergyman, Rev. Mr. Heywood, recommended me to the Brighton Hospital, where I was under treatment for one year. Several of the dectors sounded my lungs and seemed puzzled by my complaint, and changed my medicines so often that I wondered if they would ever find the right remedy. At the end of the year I stopped going to the hospital, and began to take cod liver oil, but it did no good, and I made up my mind that I was indeed doomed to death and nothing could prevent it. "Still I am alive and well to-day, and I'll tell you why in few words. In April, 1889, I met with a friend of mine, Mr. Groves, of Bouthwick, who told me of his own illness and of the great benefit he had received from Mother Beigel's Curative Syrup. I got a bottle, and by the time I had finished it my food agreed with me and I felt a little stronger. Four more bottles completed the cure, and I have since enjoyed as good health as I ever did in my life. I am a gardener, and have been in the employ of General Turnbull, The Hermitage, Southwick, for ten years. I will gladly answer inquiries." - (Signed) WILLIAM

The Southwick doctor's diagnosis was right; Mr. Goble's disease was indigestion and dyspepsia, some of the symptoms of which he names in his statement His plain testimony will serve to strongthon, necessary, the popular confidence in Mother Seigel's Syrup as a oure for this prevailing and perplexing malady. The Southwick gardener lost two years' time by not knowing what to do. But he is vastly better then a dead man now, and will, we trust, live long to give others the benefit of his knowledge.-[Advi.
